Educational Travel

Experience world culture and history while earning credit toward your degree. Each year Ambrose students venture all over the world with fellow students and professors to be servants, be challenged, be stretched and to be changed.

> Behavioural Science

Students explore firsthand the intersection of sociological and community psychological theories and their application in an international setting. Be involved in research and development of today's world issues of poverty, HIV/AIDS, and community development interventions.

> Biology

Research and field experience are critical to the life of a science student. You can dredge for marine life, examine the tidal pool on shore or study the intertidal zones at Bamfield Sciences Centre. Other opportunities include ecological studies in Costa Rica and the Galapagos Islands.

> Business Administration

Practical, experience-based learning opportunities. Add value to work in the field while developing your own business skills, and contribute to vibrant and on-going international partnerships. Options range from economic development and microfinance in Latin America to global business in the European Union.

> Christian Studies

Ambrose's award-winning educational travel study program—Down Ancient Paths—is an imaginative opportunity to experience aspects of the history, theology, spirituality and geography of diverse traditions of ancient Christianity. Locations include Syria, Israel, Egypt, Jordan, Malta, Germany and Ireland.

> English Literature

Combine theory and practice by matching literary texts with literary landscapes. Reflect critically not only on culture, place, and landscape but also on the ways in which texts produce our understandings of culture, place, and landscape. From London to Stonehenge, Salisbury Plain to the Lake District—connect with literary figures such as Chaucer, Gower, Shakespeare, Wordsworth, Milton and more.

> History

Step outside the classroom into history as you venture from the medieval castles of Germany, to the reformation monuments in Switzerland, to the ancient sites in Rome and Greece—while gaining an understanding of historical figures such as Luther and Calvin and the Roman Empire.

> Intercultural Studies, onSite

onSite, another Government of Alberta award-winning program, offers students 7-10 months of ministry practicum and study overseas. Learn the history, language and culture while experiencing an extended, in-depth practice of ministry. onSite is the internship for the Intercultural Studies program and is open to all Ambrose students.

> Music

Ambrose choirs and chamber singers perform and tour a variety of locations across Canada and Europe each year helping students learn the music, theory and history of significant music locations and perform in festivals and cathedrals.

> Best Semester

In partnership with the Best Semester program, Ambrose students can participate in this experiential, academic-focused international program. Study off campus for one semester for a learning experience that will challenge your thinking, broaden your horizons and challenge your faith. Locations include China, Australia, India, Los Angeles, Middle East, Uganda, and Oxford, England.

Alaina Attaway

Business Administration, 4th Year

"Ambrose is a second family of sorts, one that strengthens your confidence, invites you to interact and grow with it, and holds you accountable to recognizing and maximizing your greatest potential."
